Jitterbug Jookery

Definitely, there's a new trend in jewelry, not so many gadgets—but more silver stuff than you have arm space for. It's traditional to wear your silver on your left arm and your I.D. (identification) bracelets on your right arm. It's practically compulsory to wear short strings of graduated pearls with everything.

Lend Us Your Ears—We want to get those metal or plastic hoop earrings on them. And—how about the drop style earrings? It's a radical change from the button types that have been weighing you down.

Sentimental Skunk—His name is "Stinky" and he's made out of fur. He holds a little flower in his paws and a fur tail curls up his back. You see him on sweaters and lapels everywhere, too. He's a fad!

Stone Studded Stunners — The newest in hair barrettes are leather bars, studded with colored stones to match your belts you've gone beserk about. Look for them at your favorite high school shop.

Fob-Fad—Ask dad for his old watch fob; mount it on a piece of ribbon or on a chain and wear it at your waistline. It's the newest jookery-fookery.

Coin Collectors—Girls are collecting foreign coins from their Fellows on a Furlough and are having them strung together into necklaces and bracelets. It's the newest form of jingle-jangle.

FOLLOW THE FAD SHIONS

It's not always what you wear that counts, it's how you wear it. For instance, last year everybody was buttoning cardigans down the back. This year it's sharper to wear your cardigans open down the front over a blouse with only the top button fastened. Would you like to hear more? Read on. MacDuff.

Streaming Scarfs — Much newer than velvet ribbon bands for your hair are printed scarfs, folded into wide crushed bands and tied around your hair with the ends hanging down at one side. You look like a gipsy sweetheart.

Slick Suspenders — The way to make a plain blouse and skirt look like a real ensemble is to add a pair of suspenders. The fad is for felt suspenders with your name embroidered on 'em.

Hot Feet—Lots of girls are dyeing those heavy white sweat socks in bright colors to go with their sweaters. Also—lots of girls are wearing boys' argyle plaid socks—the brighter the better.

America and her "Underground"

We were sitting around after chores the other night talking about the progress of the war. Chad Davis was saying how, in spite of Germany's defeat, there was still the German underground to cope with.

"I don't worry about them," says Sober Hoskins. "So long as we got our own underground in working order."

"What do you mean—our underground?" says Chad. And Sober points out to the fields. "There it is," he says, "under that soil lies the most important weapon that we've got. American crops—from American farms—strengthening our position overseas in a way no other underground can shake."

From where I sit, Chad's absolutely right. Whether it's for the glass of beer that cheers a tired soldier's spirits, or the bread that feeds our armies and our allies, every bit of grain that American farmers harvest is a part of America's great strength.

ELECTRIC SERVICE FOR RURAL & FARM CUSTOMERS.

REDDY KILOWATT... The Farmer's Helper

A NEW liberal plan for the electrification of rural areas, filed by Vepco with the commissions of Virginia and North Carolina, is designed to make possible a widespread extension of Electric Service throughout the areas served by Vepco just as soon as labor and materials become available. Under this new plan—

1. We will extend our lines for rural and farm service to your building, or some other delivery point on your premises, relieving you of the necessity of building any private line.
2. We will construct rural extensions—at no cost to you — when the assured monthly revenue from such extensions will average not less than $6 per mile.
3. The monthly minimum shall be not less than $2 per customer.
4. Except for the $2 minimum charge, you will be served on the regular rates which apply generally in the area in which you reside.

Some lines can be built now under WPB ratings. We suggest you see your County Farm Agent or our Company Representative who will explain the conditions to be met. Others will have to wait until sufficient materials and manpower are available

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many users say has brought relief from the crampy pain, nervous irritation, headache, backache, and weakness strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before your time, it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Forestry Is Aided By Wooden Nickels

Timber Growers of South Promote Campaign.

VALDOSTA, GA. — Don't refuse any wooden nickels!

Southern forest operators have modernized the ancient gag. The new version is sounder advice, they claim, since in the South every fifth nickel is a wooden nickel—that is, one-fifth of all Southern income derives from Dixie woodlands.

To stress the point, and to publicize the rapid regrowth of harvested lands when protected from fire and managed in accordance with policies adopted by leading industrial forest operators, many thousands of "Wooden Nickels" are being distributed throughout 12 Southern states. The campaign is sponsored by the Forest Farmers, a cooperative organization of independent timber growers with headquarters in Valdosta, Ga.

On one side, the tiny discs read, "Your Own Wooden Nickel—Protect the Forest." On the obverse, the Wooden Nickel says, "In every 25c of all Southern income, 5c is Forest Money."

Distributed with a quiz sheet on the South's forest land, the Wooden Nickels spearhead an information campaign having three main objectives. They are:

1. To emphasize that everyone gets much of his income from forest utilization.

2. To educate the public to protect the forests, especially from fire.

3. To show small woodlot owners the benefits of proper development, harvesting and marketing of their forest property.

In support of these specific aims, the program encourages more desirable public forestry policies, better understanding of the work of state forestry departments, and increased cooperation of farm woodlot owners with county agricultural agents.

Easy Way Found to Keep Eggs Fresh for a Year

ITHACA, N. Y.—A method of preserving eggs at near-henhouse freshness for periods as long as a year—so simple it can be practiced in any kitchen—was announced recently by a Cornell university professor.

Alexis L. Romanoff, professor of poultry husbandry in the New York state college of agriculture at Cornell, said it is necessary only to dip eggs in boiling water for five seconds, air cool them and then store in a refrigerator at the customary 30-degree temperature.

As long as a year after treatment, Romanoff said, the eggs may be served as table eggs.

He explained that the "flash heat treatment" coagulates a thin layer of outer albumen which serves to protect the contents.

Germans' Uniform Trick Proves a Boomerang

WITH BRITISH - AMERICAN TROOPS IN BELGIUM.—The Germans ran into complications in dressing some German troops in American uniforms during the first days of their counteroffensive.

One American on lone patrol was seized by two Germans. But he had heard of Nazis dressed in United States uniforms, and he spoke excellent German. In an exasperated voice he declared: "You fools. Let me go. I am a German on a special mission."

The Germans released him, with apologies. The American sought another Yank to help him, returned and shot one German and captured the other.

U. S.-French Agreement To Assist War Industry

WASHINGTON. — The state department announced recently an agreement with France by which French African trade will be conducted directly with private industry.

All civilian supplies for these areas from the first of this year are to be on a cash basis, the announcement said. France also agreed that after June 30, no French-African civilian imports will be bought through lend-lease.

A system of import licenses will be put into effect by French authorities to keep the trade within shipping limits.

Pipeline for Wine Is Now Employed in France

PARIS. — Wine dealers are using a pipeline to carry wine over the Loire river at Blois. The Germans wrecked the bridge, and a pedestrian gangway will not support trucks. Now trucks discharge the wine on the south side into a pipe emptying into barrels on trucks on the north side.

Gets Up at 6:30 a. m. To Pay Election Bet

KANSAS CITY.—The election may be just a memory to a lot of people, but E. Kemper Carter, of people, but E. Kemper Carter, vice president of the Carter-Waters Corp. here, is reminded of it daily—at 6:30 a. m. He lost a bet with his wife and the agreement was that the loser had to get up and cook breakfast each day for 30 days.

Mills Need Quality Wood

CHEMICAL TREATMENT SAVES FENCE POSTS

Many farmers have already heard of the chemical method of treating fresh-cut wood to make is last longer as posts, poles, or stakes, but the need for such treatment becomes greater year by year as the supply of "post woods" becomes scarcer.

Farmers will need to get higher crop yields per acre in the post-war economy.

The Seventh War Loan begins next month.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's news to me, Judge. From the way some people talk you would think it was at least 50%."

"No, Clem, there's the statement right here in the paper... from authorities who have made an exhaustive study of the subject. Only about 5% of the people who drink occasionally abuse the privilege... 95% drink sensibly."

"No wonder you say it wouldn't be fair to take the privilege away from the other 5%, Judge. I agree with you."

"I can't see it any other way, Clem. No more than I could see taking automobiles away from everybody because a few drive recklessly and have accidents. Or preventing the making or sale of cake or doughnuts because some folks eat too much and get indigestion."

"In the case of spirit beverages, the answer is one of education and better control."

"As a matter of fact, the reason the members of that industry are working constantly toward that end. They don't want folks to abuse the use of their product any more than we do."
